Court Is Hotly Debated In SC

by James Canavan

A spectator-packed Science Hall 107 last Tuesday evening was the scene of the most controversial Student Council meeting held thus far this year. Drawing card for the gathering was the hotly contested proposal for a Student Court system at St. Michael's, with a most unusual extension of voice privileges giving spectators the right to the floor at the request of a Council member.

Jim McGuirk of the Student Relations Committee presented the immediate problem before the Council. As a result of the first meeting of the committee with the faculty members, it was necessary for the Council and the student body as a whole to consider measures to alleviate the problem of drinking at social weekends.

ALTERNATIVE

This consideration was necessary because college officials were considering as a solution to the problem the prohibiting of social weekends altogether. An offer was being extended to the students to come up within two weeks, with a solution or at least positive thinking, on the matter of drinking in order to avoid an "iron hand" ruling by the Administration. "We are being offered the opportunity to solve our own problem", concluded McGuirk.

Gene Violette followed McGuirk's presentation of the problem with a motion that the Council "investigate the feasibility" of a student court system at St. Michael's. In view of the immediate need for solutions, a motion to "investigate" was questioned. At this point, however, at

SENIORS TO HOLD BREAKFAST

Members of the Class of '59 will gather at the Lincoln Inn on Sunday, November 30, at 9:30 a.m. the occasion of their third annual Communion Breakfast.

A special Mass will be offered at 8:15 for the Senior Class with the Rev. Leon E. Paulin, S.S.E., as celebrant and the Seniors attending and receiving Holy Communion in a body.

FR. MORIN TO SPEAK

Rev. Paul A. Morin, S.S.E., announced today that he had accepted the invitation of the Senior Class to address them at the breakfast following the Mass. Fr. Morin, St. Michael's new Academic Dean, said that "I look forward to meeting all the members of the Senior Class."

Class President Albert Brault said: "Realizing that we will shortly be graduating from St. Michael's, we are happy that Fr. Morin has accepted our invitation since this function will provide an excellent opportunity for all members of the class of '59 to meet our new Academic Dean."

Dean To Address Students Monday

by James Canavan

At 6:30 P.M. next Monday evening, November 24, Rev. James R. Coombs, S.S.E., will address the entire student body in Austin Hall on the matter of proper conduct at social weekends. Speaking in his capacity as Dean of Men and as a spokesman for all the college officials, Fr. Coombs' promulgation is one measure resulting from the recent meeting of the Student-Administration Relations Committee.

Fr. Coombs' address will include at least the following four facets:

Due to Thanksgiving - there will be no issue of the MICHAELMAN next week.

(1) A reiteration of the College rule prohibiting alcoholic beverages on campus.

(2) Sanctions which will be enforced for future violations of this rule.

(3) A system designed to bring about responsibility on the part of both students and the Administration for insuring proper conduct of social weekends.

(4) An explanation of why such a system is needed and its avowed purpose.

WHY?

It is for the final point, "why" the system is needed and its purpose, that the student assemblage is being conducted.

In a 2½ hour meeting Wednesday afternoon, the Student-Faculty Relations Committee discussed the problem of students drinking alcoholic beverages at social weekends. Several plans were proposed by the student representatives as a result of the Student Council meeting of the previous evening which ranged from the enforcement of the present rules by the Administration to a proposal for a student court system on campus.

The pros and cons of the various systems were discussed, both on the theoretical and practical level as solutions to the problem.

After highly praising the student court idea and the efforts of those devising it, Fr. Morin tended to see it as being potentially too great an ideal to apply to the present situation. It would suffer the stigma of being established as a solution to the drinking problem, he pointed out, and consequently could be held in an unfavorable view by the students from the beginning. "As the court system envisioned has a far greater jurisdiction than control of drinking alone," he stated, "it could possibly be established in the future with great success."

The Dean of Studies directed the discussion to the heart of the present problem, that of drinking alcoholic beverages at social weekends. Presenting the view of the college officials, Fr. Morin stated the question of whether or not weekends should be allowed at all if they are not conducted properly in all phases.

ENFORCE THEIR OWN RULES

Some student representatives contended the only measure needed to stop drinking at weekends was the enforcement of the present rules by the proper college officials. The step of discontinuing weekends was not necessary, it was argued, if only there was an enforcement of the existing rules instead of allowing wholesale violation. Examples of enforcement at previous weekends which stopped drinking, at least for the duration of a particular weekend, were cited.

Chairmen List Weekend Plans

by Fran Makula

Plans for the '59 Winter Knight's Weekend were released by Outing Club President Daniel Peacock today.

Promising to keep the tradition that the '59 Class put on the best weekend, Peacock stated that this Weekend will have something of the old, and something of new. Dick Henneberry and Flo Menninger have been appointed co-chairmen.

Promising to keep the tradition that the '59 class puts on the best weekends, Peacock stated that this Weekend will have something of the old, and something new. Dick Henneberry and Flo Menninger have been appointed co-chairmen.

This year, the Winter Knights Weekend will be held Jan. 30, 31 and Feb. 1. Negotiations are underway to bring a "big name" jazz band to St. Michael's. Along with the jazz concert, plans are being made to have an informal dance on Friday night, Jan. 30.

SMC RENOWNED FOR WEEKENDS

Unlike past Winter Weekends, this year's dance will be a formal ball instead of the usual informal dance on the Saturday night of the Weekend. When this reporter queried Co-Chairman, Flo Menninger as to the purpose of having a formal ball instead of an informal one, he stated that "... we have a chance to make this weekend more famous than that of, for example, the winter weekends attempted by Ivy League schools in New England."

EXTRA EXTRA EXTRA

The Crown & Sword Society announces that it is in the process of planning a rip-roaring pep-rally for Sunday, Nov. 30 - The day preceding the St. Michael's vs. Steubenville game in Burlington Memorial Auditorium. The rally is tentatively scheduled to be held at 7:00 p.m. on the football field.

Rally chairman Paul Lennon hopes to enlist the co-operation of the Glee Club and the ROTC Band. The Purple Knights will be on hand. Let's all swing into our basketball spirit and give the team our support.

VARSITY DEFEATS FRESHMEN

By JOE FUSCO

Friday, November 14, was the first time that the present student body was able to view the Purple Knights and the Purple Squires of St. Michael's in action.

The benefit game, sponsored by the alumni, was played in the college gym.

Although there were empty seats in the gym there were many members of the student body present to view this first showing of the hoop strength of the Knights and Squires. The Knights won; beating the Freshmen 76 to 55.

HOJNACKI SCORES

The Freshmen were the first to score with Big Bob Hojnacki calmly dropping in a free throw. The Varsity quickly retaliated and the Frosh saw the lead for the last time in the game.

Leading the Varsity to victory was Al Wierciszewski with 21 points. Also helping the cause was Gretkowski with 15, St. Peter with 13, and Mracek with 12. "Weir" was

ADDRESS

In a lengthy period of cross-questioning, Fr. Morin outlined the goal of the administrators, which is to share responsibility for the enforcement of college rules at weekends with students and to make students aware that they do have a responsibility in this area. The necessity of the rule on drinking, he emphasized, couldn't be contested because it emanates directly from state laws. He contended that it should not be necessary for college officials to be present at the events of a weekend for the purpose of enforcing rules. This is an area of responsibility on the part of each student to conduct himself properly at these weekends and especially would it be an area of responsibility for those sponsoring the weekend to insure its proper operation in all fields.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY

Alluding to a suggestion by

Daniel Peacock, President of the Outing Club, Fr. Morin suggested that students sponsoring a weekend establish a committee or merely designate a certain number of people, including themselves, to insure proper conduct at the weekend. In planning the weekend, areas tending to violate a part of the College Rule should be avoided. In actual operation, students do have a responsibility for the proper conduct of each weekend in all areas and it would be the duty of certain designated persons to insure the College Rules were obeyed. If a situation arose in which abuse of the rules could not be satisfactorily rectified by the students themselves, then an Administration member must be summoned. To substantiate this system, violators will be heavily punished.

The main point brought out in the meeting is that there is a responsibility on the part of students in planning and conducting a weekend to insure its proper operation in all areas, including abiding by College Rules. The purpose of the system offered as well as Fr. Coombs' address Monday is to make students aware of this responsibility.

Those attending the meeting were Fr. Morin, Fr. Coombs, Fr. Lacharite, and Mr. Buchan from the Administration and Jim McGuirk, Fred Englert, Dennis Murphy, Ron LaFleur, Dick Manning, Albie Brault, Jim Canavan and Jim Shanley from the student body.

least two previously thought out possible solutions to the problem were presented to Council, because of the immediate nature of the question for consideration and to be discussed in debate on the original motion.

MANNING ACTS AS SPOKESMAN

In the first of several liberal rulings by the Chair, in view of the nature of the problem, the floor was given to Dick Manning to present a proposal for a student court system. Sketching the plan, which was presented by a group of interested students on campus merely as an aid towards an eventual solution, Manning proposed a student guide-student court system.

Jurisdiction of the guides and courts was to include all infractions of school regulations. Guides were to report offenders of any rule, not only drinking, and these offenders would be tried by a student court. Punishments for offenses would be given by the court, except the final step of expulsion, and no right of appeal would be granted a convicted person. If the rulings of the court were in turn violated or disregarded, a student must then deal with the proper college officials. Manning further elaborated the system for selecting the guides and court justices as well as explaining fuller the actual operation of guide-court concept.

FISHER OBJECTS

Paul Fisher first spoke against the motion and the student court idea. Terming the court only an "enforcement and reporting agency", Fisher challenged its effectiveness because in reality both guides and student judges would be bias, especially on a small campus and because its ultimate authority lies with the Administration. "The Administration would necessarily have to limit the authority of the court and if the students erred badly in a decision, he was forced into the embarrassing position of reversing the decision. The ultimate authority for the effectiveness of this court is solely with the Administration", Fisher contended the only step necessary to stop drinking was to enforce the existing rules and actually do it instead of allowing a disregard for them.

Debate waged along these lines on the student court idea and, every now and then, the original motion. Discussion centered on the feasibility of the plan inpractical operation.

PEACOCK OFFERS SOLUTIONS

Outing Club President Dan Peacock offered another solution to the problem of drinking, which in three-fold consisted of:

(1) Holding the group sponsoring a weekend responsible for its control.

(2) An intergroup supervision of weekends by the three groups which sponsor them at St. Michael's.

(3) Placing the responsibility with the Student Council and Crown and Sword Society. Peacock also offered objections to each proposal but felt they might in some way be the starting point for a final solution.

Mr. Violette's motion was ultimately passed 19-8. Following a motion by Albie Brault that the court system be presented to the Administration, the Chair ruled this action implicit in the original motion to investigate the feasibility of a court system. When Jim Canavan challenged the Chair on this ruling, the Council voted in support of Mr. LaFleur's decision.

AN UNDERSTANDING IS REACHED

After recess an action opening the floor to further suggestions for alleviating the drinking problem at social weekends, with the understanding that all these suggestions would be discussed in the Student-Faculty Relations Committee meeting the following day. When the Council finally adjourned the two hour meeting, the following suggestions had been offered.

(1) Manning - a student court system.

(2) Peacock - Three Possible plans for supervision.

(3) Fisher - enforce the present rules.

(4) Gallagher - direct the matter to the Student Welfare Committee and allow that body to be the enforcing agency.

As We See It...

After being issued the ultimatum that the student body come up with a positive solution to the problem of alcoholic beverages at social functions, Michaelmen did respond vigorously and positively.

Last Tuesday night, a relatively harmless motion was made in the Student Council. The same effect would have resulted if a hand grenade had been tossed into the room.

Michaelmen had been challenged with an ultimatum. A surprisingly large number of students, who have no vote nor voice in the Student Council, went to the expense of devoting much time and effort to offer a solution. They entered the Council and made it crystal clear that their proposed solution was simply an idea, something tangible to work with and from which direction might be taken. They admitted that it was not perfect and left a much to be desired - and left themselves open to suggestion; and in no way were attempting to "railroad" their proposal through the Council. To anyone who possesses an understanding knowledge of the English language, this should have been lear.c

The proposed solution was a student court system. Admittedly, it had glaring defects, but to the majority of these present, the gist of the proposal was worth investigating. However, to several representatives, after extensive and impassioned oratory, it possessed nothing to be desired. That is their right and privilege. The gist of their argument (after rattling several skeletons) was to leave the solution of the entire problem to the officials of the college, since the regulations that were being violated emanated from them.

That's one solution. But their proposal was puzzling to most of those present obviously must have stemmed from an inability on the part of the former, to penetrate the depth of the problem that brought all this to a fore.

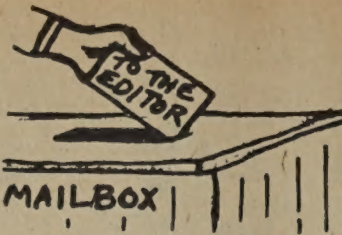

Since all of us elected, out of our own free choice, elected to attend Saint Michael's, a private institution, we must necessarily have agreed to follow any rules, regulation or directive that was standing before we came here. True, these were made by the college, but it is we students who have to abide by them and it is we students who break these rules. Consequently, although the set up of these regulations emanates from the college, the breaking of these rules emanates from we students; and the problem resulting emanate from us. To most of us, it appears that the proper settling of the problem should, as well, emanate from us, since we created it in the first place.

We were given the opportunity to propose feasible solutions to the drinking problems and we did. The main one was a Student Court system. It was proposed to the proper college officials and they admittedly favored the idea. But they deemed that the proper operation of such a system was not possible at this time, possibly in the not too distant future.

The editors of this publication stands in favor of a court system, if after careful investigation, its proper operation is determined to be feasible. We will not favor any system whose execution allows for any abuse.

However, allow me to say that the manner in which some council representatives handled the issue Tuesday night was in one word "exasperating". I can understand that the nature of the issue naturally allows that. Some may become moved. But the degree to which some were moved reflected a total lack of objectivity. However, this writer must himself confess to being moved -- right out of the room (and down to the George Bishop Lane Artists Series where the production of "Rigoletto" was executed with highest qualities of acting maturity and vocal sublimity).

To the Editor:

This poem is dedicated to certain seniors, T.P. & J., who display themselves as walking tangents in the Student Council -- from Sophomores and Juniors.

Some seniors are like circles,
Always touching lines:
And every word they have to say,
Is not even worth a dime.

A note for all Math and Science majors: The following mathematical formula can be derived from the above poem.
 $C + SL = CS$. Circles plus straight lines "equals" certain seniors.

"Whether you know it or not," he stated further, "St. Michael's has the distinction of putting on some of the best weekends in the East, and its winter weekend ranks very highly."

Menninger further stated that he spoke to a band leader playing at a college in New York this past weekend. The leader told him very frankly that he has been trying to play at St. Michael's Winter Weekend for the past five year because of the Weekend's prestige.

Other activities disclosed were an intercollegiate ski meet with Army, Colgate, and Cornell being invited, a snow party, and a basketball game with St. Michael's hosting Colby.

Strictly Speaking

by P. Terrence O'Grady

"But that's the way he saw it!"
"I don't care if that's the way he saw it, I don't like it!"

This is perhaps the most typical exchange between the defender and the antagonist to that seemingly incomprehensible phenomenon we call "modern art". You may still dislike it, but I hope in these remarks to make the creations of a Picasso somewhat clearer to understand.

It is inevitable in view of a canvas portraying in cubes what was formerly a familiar object to feel uncomfortable and self-conscious. However, this that we almost contemptuously call "modern" is nothing else but the art of our age. Indeed in America's ever growing cultural desert we are fortunate to have any art at all. But it is the blatant manipulation of traditional expression, the distortion, the warped view, the two noses and three eyes that disturbs us. We cannot understand it.

However, realizing an underlying principle of art, the general movement-if not the schools of modern art-becomes relatively simple. In William Barrett's The Irrational Man, A Study of Existential Philosophy while considering the subject points out "In the end the only authentic art is that which has about it the power of inevitability." He goes on to say "Every age projects its own image of man into its art." That is, like literature, art reflects and mirrors the philosophy of an age. The whole point of Suzanne's Langer's Philosophy in a New Key is that artistic significance is found when viewing it as a "symbolic transformation" of the philosophical questions and answers of an age. A cursory glance at the Humanities program bears this out. The massive Egyptian pyramid emphasizing death; "the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome"; the medieval preoccupation with the Cathedral and the heroic grandeur of Michaelangelo -- all attest to art as a representative form.

But what is it that produces a Picasso? Modern Art's image of man is not clear. The traditional image is destroyed; the rational form is no longer used. Hemmingway might have been expressing its manifesto when a character says: "It was all a nothing, and man is a nothing too." To the modern artist man must be stripped naked and face the brute world. Man is in spiritual poverty and cannot move upward to God. Cubism flattens out all planes; near and far are pushed to-gether. All climaxes are flattened; there is no central importance. Finally, all values are flattened; high and low are treated the same. Everything is on the same horizontal plane. William Butler Yeats wrote:

... now that my ladder's gone
I must lie down where all ladders start
In the foul rag-bone shop of the heart..
The modern artists' ladder is gone, he does not climb, he stands face to face with reality and modern art is what he sees.

Standing: (Coach Ed Markey) Healy, Hojnacki, Hart, Schlegel, Manczywor, Belanger and Emmerth. The team saw action for the first time last week when they met the Varsity in a benefit tilt. All who saw the game were highly impressed by the Freshmen and word is that things look good for the future Varsity.

SOPHS VS JUNIORS: MONDAY

By MIKE FALLON

Thursday nights Interclass Basketball action saw the Juniors drub the Frosh 59-28 and the Sophomores edge the Seniors 42-37 in a game that went all the way down the wire.

The Juniors displayed depth in skill in their one sided victory over the first year men. They completely outclassed, outfought, and outplayed the helpless freshmen. Only Dick Foley, who scored 8 points, was the only bright spot.

In leading the Juniors to their second win Pete Griffin showed offensive and defensive skill and George Bazinet led the scoring column with 12 pts.

In the second and much more exciting contest of the night,

Pete Clement hit one of his patented jump shots with one minute remaining and safely slowed up the game for the undefeated Sophomores.

Clement was high man of the night as he hooped 13 marks with Art de Grandpre and Neff Shea leading the Seniors with 10 and 8 points respectively.

The game, Monday at 6:30, between the Sophomores and the Juniors should decide, if it's a runaway, who will dominate the league this season.

JUNIORS HUMBLE SENIORS

By TOM POWERS

St. Michael's Inter-Class Basketball League opened last Monday night with the Juniors entertaining the Seniors and the Sophomores opposing the first year men. In the first half of the double-header the Juniors waltzed by the Seniors to the tune of 58-45.

The game started slow with Mike Fisher finally breaking the ice for the Seniors with a tap-in after five minutes of play had elapsed. The first quarter ended with the Juniors ahead 10-4.

The Juniors then started to open up a big lead with two quick jump shots from the outside by George Bazinet. McMahon and Griffin, who controlled the boards for the Juniors, scored on consecutive shots from the inside. The first half ended with the Juniors leading 28-19.

SECOND HALF

The second half opened with Art deGrandpre hitting the net from mid court and Neil Shea dunking a two-pointer. But again the Juniors rallied, led by Jerry Kowalczyk, Bazinet and Joe Kozlowski who contributed to the cause with five points.

Midway in the fourth quarter deGrandpre and Shea caught fire but their combined effort was not quite enough to stop the rampaging Juniors.

SOPHS DOWN FROSH

As the game started, everyone was concentrating on the unknown freshmen team to see how they would fare this season. As it turned out, the freshmen have a small and inexperienced team which will be lucky to win a game.

Dick Guilmette and Harry Kerrigan were the standouts in the first half as both poured in basket after basket for the Sophomores. Guilmette was fabulous underneath as he pulled everything off the boards except the point.

With Pete Clement and Jim Martin directing the attack the Freshmen were hampered by outside shooting as well as inside shots by Jim McGowan and Dick Guilmette.

The little hope the Freshmen had was given by big Mulcahy who grabbed a few offensive rebounds and scored on a roundhouse hook shot early in the game. Fr. Boucher also added a little boosting from thebalcony.

In the second half, with his team leading with 25 points Sophomore coach Jack McGough cleared the bench and took out the first seven players. Thus the scoring was lower and the game turned into a rough house race up and down the court.

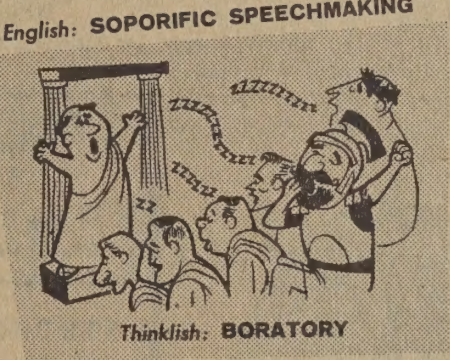

In that second half, "Lash" LeRoux, a starter for last years' Freshmen team had 5 personnel fouls accredited to him in a little more than 10 minutes of play. His silly grin added a bit of humor to the final portion of the final period.

"Having seen both the Varsity and Freshmen teams in action we now have some preview of this year's hoop action. It appears that although Big Al Wier started at center and scored 21 points in a great offensive effort, the center slot's not sealed up. Dave Mracek subbed for Al and also came through in fine fashion as he scored 12 points and pulled down quite a few rebounds. This remains one of the prominent questions left to be answered after the regular season begins December 1.

We play Steubenville on that opening date as The Barons from Ohio begin the defense of their national small college championship. The man to watch in this game is senior, John Clark who was second only to their great Jim Smith in scoring last season. Smith has graduated leaving them lacking in height and rebounding strength.

On February 23 we play Kentucky Wesleyan on their homecourt. They will probably be our toughest opposition during the course of the year as they have a sophomore great in "King Kelly" Coleman. Coleman, as a freshman last year, started on the varsity and was the fifth highest scorer in the country. Ranking behind such greats as Wilt "The Stilt" and Elgin Baylor. By the way Baylor is on his way to being pro rookie of the year for the Minneapolis Lakers. "King Kelly" Coleman has broken all scoring records in Kentucky and at 6'3", 215 lbs. pulls down many a rebound.

Boy, that Pro Football League sure is having an exciting year. The "Giants" appeared to be rolling to a division championship as they compiled a 10-zip count over Pittsburg only to loose by 21 points. All it takes in this league is one injured player or one mistake and you've had it since the teams are so close together as far as talent goes. I wouldn't be surprised if the Browns finished in second or third place. Remember they all have four more games to go. The Giants will beat the Redskins but I won't give them more than a touch-down.

What about this third league? If anything is to be done for our supposed "national pastime" let it be done now. An outlaw league would meet a lot of opposition from various sources but I feel it will work in the course of time. The proponents of the third league have planned on the swapping of players and it appears that the Yankees will be the target for this. The Yankees worked for the champions they have playing for them and shouldn't be required to "break up".

Seniors Lead Bowling

by Dan Mahoney

After the third match held on Monday, the Senior duckpin team proves to be the best as they lead the Junior team by one point, 9-8. The Sophomore stick in third place with 5 points as the Freshmen bring up the rear with a mere 2 points.

CANNIZZARO

Angie Cannizzaro donned bowling shoes for the first time Monday night as he led the Junior team to a three to one victory over the Sophomores. His games showed 114, 113, and 106 for a 333 triple and a 111 average for his nights work. Angie looks as though he will stick around for a few more games with shooting like that.

Due to the effort of Jack O'Brien's last game of 109, the Sophomores stole a point from the hot Juniors. Dave Richiski did well also with his many strikes and a 297 triple. The Juniors won the game 3-1.

Bowling for the Juniors were Dick Salzillo, Ron Von Stetina, Angie Cannizzaro, Stan Tencza, and Ed Goyette. These bowlers spilled a total of 1460 pins which proved to be the best team effort of the year.

Bowling for the Sophomores were Dan Mahoney, Dean Bergeron, Dick Tinney, Dave Richiski, and Jack O'Brien. The Sophomores totaled 1421 pins for the night.

SENIORS WIN

John Datis's 296 triple showed the way for the Seniors as they crunched the Freshmen 3-1. Dick Lozier and Don Desfosses did their best to put the Freshmen on the right track but to no avail as the Seniors 1374 proved 63 pins better than the Freshmen's 1310.

Bowling for the Seniors were Pierre Prevost, John Barney, John Datis, Bill Casey, and Ray Bissonnette. Going for the Freshmen were Don Desfosses, Ray Thomas, Frank Lioce, Pat O'Gorman, and Dick Lozier.

by "Lash" LeRoux

Everyone split last Thursday, both matches, one between the Seniors and Sophs and the other between the Juniors and Frosh ended in 2-2 ties.

The Seniors are still in first place with 12 points followed by the Juniors, Sophs and Frosh with 11, 9, and 8 points respectively.

The Seniors-Sophs tussle provided a dynamic ending when John Stevens bowled three strikes in the 10th to enable the Seniors to come from a 3-1 defeat.

John Stevens led the Seniors as Geroge Hinerth and Bill LeRoux aided the Sophs.

The Juniors and Frosh also had quite a battle as the Frosh gained their two points by 4 and 6 pin margins. Both these games were decided in the last frame.

John Clancy and John Wyman looked good this week.

Hats off this week to John Stevens and John Wyman. When were Neal Shea and "Rollie" Holub last week? Both were missed by their teams.

If you actually care or anything, I was nervous the night I took old Barbara to dinner. I mean I really liked her. I really did. So I wanted to show how suave I was and all, but these swanky New York restaurants get me down. They're always so full of phonies and people like that, and pretty soon I start acting like a lousy phony myself, and then I get depressed. I'm not kidding.

Anyway we had to walk through this little bar to get to our table, and this waiter squeezed by with some Schaefer beer on a tray. So I felt better then. No kidding, sometimes if you're feeling lousy and you see some Schaefer or something, you feel almost happy, for gosh sake.

So, like I was saying, I really wanted to impress old Barbara. She kills me. So what I did was I told her about how Schaefer was my kind of beer and real beer and all, like I was some crumby cosmopolite or somebody. I'm a madman that way sometimes. "Did you know experts call Schaefer round because it has a smooth harmony of flavors?" I asked in this suave voice. "Yes," she said. That knocked me out. I mean you ask most girls a thing like that and they bat their crumby eyes at you and say, "Ohh, really?" I swear they do. But not old Barbara, boy. She says what she means, for gosh sake.

Then this swanky waiter comes over, and I get all depressed again. I was ready to smack him if he started fawning and speaking in French and all. I mean it. I can't stand things like that. I guess I'm a regular madman. Anyway, this guy was all right. The only actually silly thing he did was put his fingers to his lips and kiss them when we ordered the Schaefer.

So that's that story. Except I suppose you want to know old Barbara and I are engaged now, and I don't get depressed any more or anything. That killed me the way she knew about Schaefer that night. I mean it. Old Barbara's really something.
